

Trillium Health Announces Women's Health Provider

August 8, 2013

Rochester, NY - In light of the recent expansion of medical services, Trillium Health (formerly AIDS Care) has announced the arrival of a new medical provider, Kristin Smith, D.N.P. Dr. Smith will spearhead the new women's health program as well as supporting LGBT health and family practice patients.

According to Clint Koenig, M.D., senior vice president and chief medical officer at Trillium Health, "We are very excited to have Kristin join our medical team. Her compassion and attention to detail will benefit our patients and further our commitment to excellence."

Dr. Smith was previously employed at Highland Family Medicine. She is a recent graduate of the St. John Fisher College Doctor of Nursing Practice program and served as an adjunct professor in the Wegmans School of Nursing at the college. Additionally, Smith will work closely with the Trillium Health care management team as a subject matter expert for medically complex patients and clients.

For additional media information, contact Stacey Rowe, associate director of marketing, at (585) 210-4217.

###